Not illustrated. 1869 Excerpt: . was as unfitted for the miasmatic swamps and mists of Ostend, as for the alternate extremes of heat and cold at Coblenz. But for his exile to these countries--an exile which he underwent for the faults of others--he might still be delighting the world with the later fruit of a genius that had barely attained its maturity at the time of his death. 39, Rue Lonbue, Ostend, June 28th, 1837. My Dear Wright, You will see from the above address that we are not only safe here, but settled, after a prosperous but slow journey; so that it was luckily performed, with the advantage of fine weather to boot. Our exit from Coblenz was worthy of the entrance: the farce did not, like many modern ones, fall off at the end. We had a famous row with our landlord. He rushed up his own stairs, and shouted from the top, Dumme Englander! And then Jane had a scrimmage with him. E i played the Italian traitor to both sides all the time. Finally, just on the gunwale of the packet, as it were, they gave us a finishing touch; for Jane called to pay a bookseller on the road, and he made her pay for a number more than she had had. As for Katchen, she cried at the parting point--partly, I suppose, because we did not take her with us (for she told all her friends she intended it), and partly because she was...
